

STATINTL

Col. Lewis Stevens Dies, Planning Officer of AF

Col. Lewis E. Stevens, an architect and senior planning officer with the Department of the Air Force, died of cancer Saturday at Washington Hospital Center.

Col. Stevens, 55, attended the University of Michigan and received a Taliesin Fellowship to study architecture under Frank Lloyd Wright. After several years of private practice he entered the Federal service in 1936. While with the Farm Security Administration he helped plan the Greenbelt project.

Col. Stevens, a native of Milwaukee, worked for the Federal Housing Administration and the Central Intelligence Agency.

He served in Europe with the Air Force during World War II and maintained an active role in the Reserve. He graduated from the National War College in 1954 and after his recall to duty in 1958 spent three years at NATO headquarters in Paris.

He is survived by his wife, Mildred, of the home address at 4514 Wetherill rd., Westmoreland Hills, Md., and a sister, Mrs. A. C. Gaulke of Milwaukee.